

General Policy - Telecommuting

Participation in a telecommuting arrangement is discretionary on the part of management and voluntary on the part of the employee, unless specifically stated as a condition of employment. It is not a state benefit and does not change the terms and conditions of employment with the state. Telecommuting is NOT an employee right or entitlement. Telecommuting arrangements focus on the business needs of the organization first, but also give consideration to employees who desire workplace flexibility. The guidelines provided herein will assist managers in the decision-making process when considering telecommuting or out stationing employees. Any telecommuting agreement should be reviewed by counsel before implementing.

Characteristics of Work Suitable for Telecommuting/Out stationing

- Quantifiable, measurable, reasonably tracked
- Easily portable
- Limited requirement for face-to-face internal/external interaction and communication
- Minimal supervision required
- Information-based

Some Examples of Job Characteristics that May NOT be Suitable for Telecommuting/Out stationing

- Files
- Face to Face
- Phone Responsibilities
- Frequent Campus Presence to complete duties assigned

Eligibility

Telecommuting is available for regular and temporary full-time and part-time employees who:

- possess a demonstrated skill level in the work to be performed or have been employed by the agency for a period of time to achieve a competency level
- have demonstrated the ability to work independently and manage their own time and workload

- have exhibited at or above average performance in accordance with the performance appraisal process.

Procedure

Before entering into any new telecommuting agreement, the employee and supervisor shall evaluate the suitability of such an arrangement, paying particular attention to the following areas:

- Employee Suitability – the employee and manager will assess the needs and work habits of the employee, compared to traits customarily recognized as appropriate for successful telecommuters.
- Job Responsibilities – the employee and supervisor will discuss the job responsibilities and determine if the job is appropriate for a telecommuting arrangement.
- Equipment needs, work space design considerations, and scheduling issues
- Tax and other legal implications for the business use of the employee’s home based on IRS and state and local government restrictions; responsibility for fulfilling all obligations in this area rests solely with the employee.
- Each employee and supervisor should review the Telecommuting Feasibility Worksheet (Sections 1 & 2) to determine if the position is eligible for a Telecommuting Agreement. The worksheet assists the department and supervisor in evaluating the feasibility of telecommuting arrangements for a specific position/department.

Once the employee and supervisor agree, a telecommuting agreement is prepared and signed by all parties. A trial period may be implemented.

If a trial period is agreed upon, evaluation of telecommuter performance during the trial period could generally include daily interaction by phone and/or e-mail between the employee and the supervisor, and weekly face-to-face meetings to discuss work progress and problems. At the conclusion of the trial period, the employee and manager may want to each complete an evaluation of the arrangement and make recommendations for continuance or modifications. Evaluation of telecommuter performance beyond the trial period will be consistent with that received by employees working at the office in both content and frequency but will focus on work output and completion of objectives.

Management Responsibilities

- Approve or disapprove the employee’s participation in the program.

Work schedules may parallel those in the central office setting or be structured to meet the needs of the employee and supervisor. The employee agrees to be accessible by phone or e-mail within a reasonable time period during the agreed upon work schedule. Telecommuting employees who are not exempt from the overtime requirements of the Fair Labor Standards Act will be required to record all hours worked in a manner designated by the agency. Hours worked in excess of those specified per day and per week will, in accordance with state and federal requirements, require the advanced approval of the supervisor. Failure to comply with this requirement can result in an immediate termination of the telecommuting agreement. Each monthly timesheet should reflect hours worked, and/or leave taken, as appropriate and in accordance with Fair Labor Standards Act requirements.

Salary

An employee's compensation, benefits, and work status will not be affected by participation in a telecommuting arrangement when the same work would have been performed in the central office setting. If an employee takes a different position to locate in a rural area or is assigned different work, the classification of an employee's position and the employee's salary may be different from when that employee worked in the central office setting.

Travel

Travel to the central office location is the responsibility of the employee. Business travel in the course of the workday is reimbursable. If state fleet vehicle access is available, the agency encourages use whenever possible. Use of personal vehicles is not prohibited but requires authorization by a manager.

An employee with an out-of-state residence will use the North Dakota border when calculating mileage associated with work and identifying a start time for travel. Travel from a personal residence to the North Dakota border is personal time.

Business Contacts

An employee in a telecommuting arrangement where the work site is the home shall not meet with clients, customers, the public, other staff members (except his/her supervisor) or professional colleagues at his/her residence for business purposes.

Consideration shall be given to the types of office furniture, equipment, supplies, and technical support that the agency will provide. Equipment and software must meet organizational standards.

Equipment provided by an agency is to be used by the employee and for business purposes only. Use by family members or others is prohibited. Equipment supplied by the agency will be maintained by the agency. The agency accepts no responsibility for damages or repairs to employee-owned equipment. The telecommuter should sign an inventory of all office property and agrees to take appropriate action to protect the items from damage or theft. Upon termination of the telecommuting agreement or employment, all agency property will be returned to the agency, unless other arrangements have been made.

Agency policies relating to computer hardware and software usage applies in the telecommuting arrangement unless specifically authorized by the appointing authority.

The agency should supply materials necessary to complete assigned work at the work site through the employee's in-office visits. Out-of-pocket expenses for supplies normally available through the agency should not be reimbursed.

Inclement Weather

If the central office location is closed due to an emergency or inclement weather, the manager will contact the employee. The employee may continue to work at the work site. If there is an emergency, such as a power outage, at the work site, the employee shall notify the manager as soon as possible.

Telecommuting Agreement Termination

Any telecommuting arrangement made could be on a trial basis for a period of time and may be discontinued at any time at the request of either the telecommuter or the agency. A telecommuting arrangement may be suspended temporarily due to operational needs of the agency. Management retains the right to refuse or terminate a telecommuting arrangement at any time followed up with written notice to the employee.

Workers Compensation

Any accident or injury must be brought to the immediate attention of the employee's supervisor.

Workers compensation coverage will be provided for the employee while in the telecommuting arrangement when injuries are sustained in conjunction with the employee's regular work duties. However, the agency assumes no liability for injuries occurring to the employee at the work site when the injuries are not sustained in conjunction with the employee's regular duties. The employee is liable for any injuries sustained by visitors to his or her work site.
